

In fact, the battle between science and belief is over. Since the period of enlightenment, farfetched and foremost pretentious attempts have been made to rehabilitate belief. Yet, belief does not stop existing, and it do has an important role both in individual and social spheres of life. Belief has not gained authority, publicity and has neither even an advocate yet... - Have you ever been fatigued? Have you ever felt feeble after talking to someone? Gasp! You met an energy-vampire! I experienced it! And it's real!!! Some people can suck the others' energies out! They are often the best friends of their victims, who unannouncedly feels exhausted, which is the sign of energy-loss.

Energyvampire-types

- 1. Human with superantural abilities
- 2. Double-being (half-human - half demon)
- 3. Supernatural being (demon, lidérc)

My daughter complained that she often felt exhausted and irritable these days. We all interpreted it as the effect of school duties. But a strange thing happened to her on Monday! She felt negative energies around her while passing the exam. What is more, as she stepped out the room the door swung shut. I tuned my self on to her as I learned it in the brain control course and I visualized a huge tube attached to my daughter's back. I asked her if she could feel something in the middle of her back. She felt pain under the shoulder-blades. I started the cleaning immediately, because I saw not only the tube but the person that it was leading to as well. I asked my daughter to do the cleaning exercises herself. The result was astonishing! She felt better next day.

Well. I'm afraid that my actual chosen one is regularly tapping my energies. We have been dating for ca. two months. And I noticed that I feel bad very frequently nowadays: nausea, spasmodic kidneys and stomach, diarrhoea. It seemed frightening, because I thought I had some serious troubles. And then I checked it! And I found out that these [symptoms] appeared each time when we had a date.

(Passage from Csipkerózsika's contribution to the energyvampire-forum on 17/11/2008, <http://www.hoxa.hu>.)

I know for sure that energyvampires exist. I used to get very exhausted when staying by one of our acquaintances, an old aunty. If we happened to chat, I felt that the more enthusiastic she talked the more sleepy I grew. [...] She got a minor stroke later, and I kept on visiting her until she got better. In the end I realized that she was stealing [energies] from me, because I became weaker and weaker, and tired, and hysterical, at last, I shouted at my husband, that I did not want to see her [the old aunt] any more. I neglected her and got better then. (Anthea`s contribution to the energyvampire-forum, 26 Jan 2007, <http://www.hoxa.hu>.)

To start with it is enough to keep the distance with him. Do not let him touching your aura. If you fail with kiss-off talking than it is worth for simulating a contagiuous illness and sneezing endlessly.

The only thing I know is that one should keep feet or hands crossed and thus close the energy-system, and they wont be able to suck ones energies.

In the name of Jesus Christ I am asking God for blue-light protection on all the persons, on OURSELVES [sic!], on the room we are in, on all electric in- and output halls in the room.

One more thing to Shift. You know, your comment that even women could be sexual energy-vampires brought a colleague [female] into my mind. Once I travelled to Pecs (550 km from here), and I felt better, and even the bruise disappeared from one day to another. But when I stayed here and worked next to her, on the last day, another bruise appeared on my other thie, a small mark... Well, both have disappeared, almost, some tiny little spots have reamined still...

(Contribution by Kincs on the forum moderated by Shift, 20 Sept 2003, <http://www.szantal.hu>.)

These beings consumpt the internal life-essence produced next to kundalini. Healthy people are well equipped with this energy [...] and if you get sick, even more is produced to defend body. But production [of life-essence] is stopped above a certain age. This is the time when one can be „sucked to death“. It does not happen immediately, because first the energy-supplies of the body are exhausted. It may take several weeks, months, or even years. Then one`s soul is slowly passing by to the otherworld, or whatever we call it. (Extract of Daleth`s contribution on Harmonet forum, <http://forum.harmonet.hu>.)

Kovacs “Magyar” Andras – taltos healer, and founder of Ancient Hungarian Taltos Church

The patients sitting around were ordinary people, nothing special. Even the healer was a simple, average man. But the clinical environment decorated with spiritual paintings and carved wooden sculptures was very impressive. I was given a cassette to learn the sequential process of imagination. During the healing act I soon became relaxed, and during the guided imagery I went down 21 steps I had to drink from the water of life, eat a leaf from the tree of life, and with a winged white `taltos` horse we flew up to the heavenly castle of the Lord, where I asked forgiveness. I was given a sword, a white coat and helmet from the Lord. Then we went to the spirit hospital, where the `virtual` operation on the tumour was completed. It is important to mention that after the spiritual operation, for weeks I had to send energy in an altered state of consciousness, getting down the stairway, drinking from the spring of water of life ten times and sending the energy, and repeating the formula: `I trust in my mother`s spirit, that I will heal my mother`s body 100 per cent. (Lazar 2006: 45.)

Karaul, the táltos

Documentary by Istvan Moczár, Ildiko Roka and Agnes Berlinger, 2004.

A man with a large, bushy blonde wig, wearing a traditional Hungarian folk costume (Kisbucsi) with a patterned jacket and a blue apron, is performing a ritual. He holds a wooden staff vertically in his right hand and a silver bowl in his left. The background shows a room with a bookshelf and framed pictures.

The good spirit and will of the Old God has brought you here, hence, I light now a blissful smoking-stick and start praying.

The purity of your soul has brought you here and I am praying to the Östevö [Ancient-factor] that harmful armany, körghöz, csoma, astag may never find you. Anywhere you go, be blessed by the Ancient God.

The earthly effigy of heavenly fire is fluttering here amongst the blessed smoke. I light this fire for you now!

[...] Tengri, Lord of the Night
wants to overcome the Light of the Creator Sun! But Östevö does not let it be!

With pure soul, let us now remember of our Ancient Mother, Emese, and of our Lady Sarolta, who was the daughter of the gyula [=fellow-ruler] of Transylvania.

Lord of the Universe, Östevö, we send our prayer to you by the szer [=ritual] fire. Give us power to create, please! Deliver us from Khan Buran! Do not let him destroy the Hungarian land, the Hungarian rona [=plains], all created by humans, the bread of the Moon, the Hungarian wheet, the fruits, anything created by Östevö!

My Lord, Östevö, I am praying to you now. All we are praying to you, all over the Hungarian land. Accept my prayer!

Hail to you, Sun, ancestor of our ancestors, god of Hungarians! You have spread your tiny particles
and created the Schytian Hungarians of them.

At this very place everything has a meaning. The four birches, for example, represent the four directions. By touching them one can sense the energies of earth and sun.
